Biography

Sarah is an occupational therapist (OT) with over 20 years of clinical experience working with patients across NHS and independent practice, combining the roles of OT, case manager and expert witness.

Having worked in England, Scotland and Northern Ireland in hospital and community based roles, she has developed a broad knowledge from clinical experience of acute management, through to problem-solving issues in a client's home environment and supporting clients with lifelong conditions.

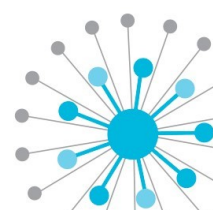

Sarah has been a case manager since 2014 and specialises in clients who have sustained major, catastrophic, life-changing injuries.

Interventions have included managing physical rehabilitation, deploying assistive technology in the home and workplace, adaptation to accommodation, pain management coaching and psychological support. She has worked on several cases which involved fatalities and has supported family members following these events.

Sarah has a commitment to good quality, regular reporting and contact, expertise in building a multi-disciplinary case team and excellent problem-solving skills.

Having worked for several years within the NHS, Sarah has forged strong links with local key service providers and works in partnership with NHS teams to ensure collaborative teamwork to maximise her clients' outcomes.

She has significant experience of working closely with a wide range of medical professionals.
